

BREAK A LEG

BREAK A LEG

It's a theatrical superstition that wishing someone good luck is actually bad luck. Following that logic, the polite thing to say is, "Break a leg!" There are all sorts of bad things that can happen to an actor on stage, so I'm not sure why we settled on breaking a leg. Imagine if we said, "Forget your lines!" or "Get a nose bleed!"

Prompt: Imagine that you are on stage and disaster strikes. Tell the story of what happened.
